FIRE AT QUARRY BAY,

TWO MEN BURNED TO DEATH. A fire broke out about ten o'clock last night in the westernmost of the matched lwellings at Quarry Bay, and was carried ma for Kobe and Hongkong on the with such rapidity by the high wind that in the course of a few minutes half-a-dozen of these highly-inflammable structures were destroyed. Among the ruins afterwards were found the charred remains of two men who had been living in the matsheds. Sparks from the matsheds set fire to a godown belonging to the Sugar Works, which was completely destroyed. The godown contained a steem orgine and some machinery not in use and 20,000 gunny bags, all of which were destroyed. In addition to the two men burned to death, several of the inhabitants of the matsheds have been more or less seriously injured. The cause of the fire has not been ascertained.

THE ANCONA AND KUNG-PAI

The P. and O. steamer Ancona (Captain Mudie) and the China Merchants' steamer Kung- "ai (Captain Clifford) came into collision at a quarter before 7 o'clock this morning, with the result that both vessels had to be be sched, the former in Kowloon Liverpool, left Singapore on the 2nd Boy and the latter near Quarry Bay. The China Merchants' left Bombay for Singapore and this port | steamer struck the P. and O. vessel about opposite the hatch of the main-hold making a wedge-shaped hole in her starboard side four feet in width at the top, about two feet at the bottom and about eighteen feet in length. The Ancona made water so ranidly after the collision that it was deemed advisable to beach her as speedily as possible. Her carge is now being discharged, and it is expected that she will be taken into dock to-morrow. The damage to the Kung-Pai consists in her having her bows stove in, but she has made no water. She lies with her nose aground on a sandy spit at the West point of Quarry Bay and will likely come off with next tide.

Eye-witnesses of the collision say they don't quite understand how the two vessels got together, and the people on board the steamers are somewhat reticent on the subject. There was of course a good deal of consternation among the passengers on the Ancona, especially among the ladies. when the affair happened, but this soon subsided when the extent of the damage and the absence of actual danger became known. The vessel was as quickly as possible run on to the sandy beach of the bay opposite Kowloon City. Mr E. L. Woodin, the agent of the P. and O. Co., immediately on being informed of what had happened, proceeded to the vessel, and lighters were at once dispatched to take the sent to take off the passengers and their luggage, and returned to Hongkong in the

How long she will remain there it is hardly possible to say as yet with certainty, but we believe it will not be surprising if it takes a month to make the necessary repairs. The place where the steamer is heached is within a few minutes? steaming of Hungham Docks.

The Kung Pai's damage seems to be worst on her port bow, where her plates have been crushed like egg-shells. Her collision bulkhead remains intact, and there appears to be no apprehension of its giving way. As soon as the vessel is got off she

AN IMPORTANT SHARE CASE. A rather important share case has just been decided in Singapore. The else, as briefly stated by the Straits Times, is les THE follows :- At a time when the Rawanz Company was in some discepute, Mr H. M. Simons and others instructed a broker to sell at any price he could get 1/5 Rawang shares, which order he executed within a fow hours by solling them by written contract to one Teo Guan Tye, at seven dollars a share. A few months before that sale the shares had been at $130, a few days before the sale they had been at $20, and a few days afterwards they were being given away with a small bonus to those who would undertake to pay a call of five dollars which shortly became duer In fact the took was of a very speculative character. The buyer admitted the contract, but set up the defonce that he had been induced to make the contract by fraud, and the alleged fraud was chiefly that the selling broker had knowingly refrained from stating that the Company's bills were returned, and had described the Company as strong when it was not strong, and had stated that the fall was in consequence of a combination persons who wanted to bear down shares to their own advantage. But it was denied by the broker that he had made such statements, and it was also denied that he had known of the Company's bills being re-

Mr Justice Goldney, in giving judgment, said- If the evidence on the part of the defendant convinced me that the broker had actual knowledge, not a mere suspicion of the Co. having suspended payment previous to his selling these shares to the defendant and was also aware that the defendant was ignorant of this, and that having this knowledge he did not disclose the fact, or rather concoaled it from the defendant, and that he did make the alleged representations, I should have no hesitation in finding a verdict for the defendant. In my opinion all moreantile contracts if at not the means of knowing or is not presum- Goods from alongside. ed to know, that is a fact which if commuterms, the doing so is a concealment effected. will avoid the contract.

to say that there was such a concoalment counised. or misrepresentation in this case, and be gave judgment for the plaintiff. Commenting on the judgment, the Straits Times says :- 'The evidence, as we think, tended to show that the broker, having been instructed to sell the shares at any price obtainable, had simply tempted the defendant with a price which, as compared with former prices, appeared to be very low, and that the defendant, being induced by the desire to make a large profit, bought the shares, and, finding very soon that he had made a bad bargain, endeavoured to get out of it. It will be generally held that any other decision would have been injurious to the community. In fact, if, on such syidence, the buyer had been allowed relief from his contract, it would become difficult for Europeans to deal with Asiatics at all Cash on delivery, or cash against documents, would have to give place to cash on conversation; and even cash on conversa tion would not have sufficed in this case because the "calls" were a liability that could not be covered in any way other than by a deposit in security. It must be further added that the recent numerous decisions in favour of Chinamen (the soundness of which we do not impugn) have incidentally tended to induce many Asiatics to think that they can get out of almost any bargain and while, clearly, that impression is only the result of an ill-instructed subtlety, it is nevertheless fortunate that a case has aptly occurred in which the law has been able justly to enforce a share contract. For it is to the general good that all persons should be made to look on agreements as things that must be fulfilled, whether they be profitable or the reverse.

CHEFOO.

The inquest, which as I mentioned on next morning at the British Consulate, and brought to a close after an exhaustive the jarors returning the following verdict :] - That Colin Jamieson was found drowned cast up on the beach near Middle Point on the 19th of November, but there is no ovidence to shew how the deceased got intothe water.'

No other verdict could have been returned, for the medical gentleman who had examined the body, had stated that there were no internal or external indications of violence to be found on it. Nevertheless the facts remain that the ring, watch, and chain of the decrased were not upon his person, and his pockets were empty and one was noticed to be practically turned inside out. The sleeve-links and gold collar studs were, however, in their place, untouched.

The missing property evidently influenced the jurors in their decision, for had Mr. Jamieson's valuables been found upon his body it is probable a verdict of accidental death from drowning would have been

The funeral, which took place to-day, was attended by H.E. Sheng Taotai, with his retinue, and the various foreign Consuls of the port were present, not alone out of respect and friendship to the deceased, but also in their official capacity to show full honour at the grave of the Commissioner of Customs.

It is needless to say the sad fate of Mr. Colin Jamieson has cast a gloom over the entire community.
